THE BARFLY

Alan Tocchio

There is pretty much but one authentic "Roadhouse" bar in north Jersey and it is The Great Notch Inn located at 400 Rt. 46 in Little Falls. A few week ago my buddy Dave shot down there to catch a set by the band Enzo and the Bakers. He said the place was packed and the band, which plays everything from Memphis Soul to Dylan and the Dead, were very tight and really got the place rockin'. Here are a couple of pics from the night that feature owner Rich, his sister Gail and of course Dave. Enzo & The Bakers will be back at "The Notch" this Friday September 9th and you can check out the bar's entire upcoming schedule at www.thegreatnotchinn.com.

Enzo and the Bakers

This September marks the 161st birthday of Jack Daniel's and our friends in Lynchburg, Tennessee truly know how to celebrate! On Sept. 1st at a birthday bash held in New York City, friends and fans of the famed whiskey-maker turned out to support the brand's quest to break seven world records in one day. The result? Well, Jack Daniel's is now the record holder for six world records! Reflecting on the global achievement, Master Taster Jeff Norman stated, "I think Mr. Jack would have been very proud and honored to have so many folks join together to celebrate his birthday. He was known for throwing some great parties, and we sure had a great one. The amount of support we've received truly illustrates the loyalty and excitement surrounding our whiskey's founder and Jack Daniel's new place as a GUINNESS WORLD RECORDS® holder." GUINNESS WORLD RECORDS® Adjudicator Kimberly Patrick was present to validate the records and present Jack Daniel's with official certification of the six records achieved. Those records include: 1) Most Contributions to a Greeting Card. Jack fans from across the globe joined in the historic quest by sending digital birthday greetings to the whiskey icon via the Jack Daniel's Facebook page. Digital greetings were transcribed and added to greetings collected from fans during birthday bash. By the close of the event, 1,075 greetings were obtained. 2) Largest Glass Bottle Mosaic. Using 2,120 Jack Daniel's bottles, Mosaic Artist Herb Williams created a large mosaic portrait of the famed whiskey-maker. 3) Largest Bottle of Whiskey. The world's best-selling whiskey is now the owner of the largest whiskey bottle in the world, which contained 184 liters of Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey. 4) Most Bottles Played (bottle orchestra) Record participants used 475 Jack Daniel's bottles to play a rendition of "Happy Birthday" dedicated to Jack. 5) Most People Blowing Out Candles Simultaneously. Two hundred fifty record participants simultaneously blew out candles in honor of Mr. Jack. 6) Fastest Time to Build a 20 Shot Glass Pyramid. On behalf of Jack Daniel's, Samantha Sherlock from Newark, Delaware constructed a pyramid consisting of 20 shot glasses in 10.56 seconds. The only record not achieved was the "largest gathering of people born in same month", but hell, six out of seven is pretty damn awesome! To learn more about how to continue the birthday celebration, please visit JoinJacksParty.com.

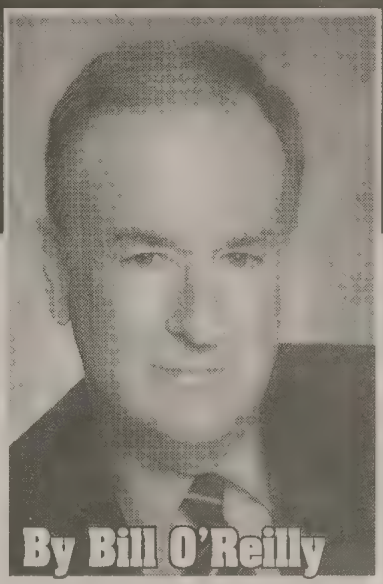
THE CHICLETTES

Talking Points

The Romney-Perry Feud



Political feuds are entertaining, especially when they involve presidential contenders. Thus, the alleged bad blood between Texas Gov. Rick Perry and former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney is worth examining because they are currently the frontrunners to challenge President Obama next year.

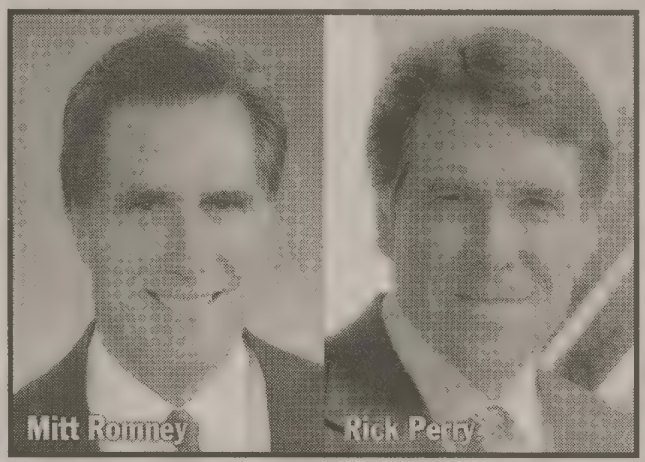
According to reporting by The Boston Globe, there are two issues in play. First, back in 2002, when Romney was rescuing the Salt Lake City Olympic games from chaos, Perry wanted the Boy Scouts of America to be named the official volunteers of the games. Romney said no because most scouts are under 18, the minimum age to work at the Olympics.

Perry, however, thought there was a gay component to Romney's decision, since the Boy Scouts do not accept declared homosexuals as scoutmasters. Romney denied that.

Then in 2006, Romney traveled to Texas as the chairman of the Republican Governors Association. He met with Perry, who was furious that Romney had hired a man named Alex Castellanos as an adviser.

It seems that Castellanos was also advising Carole Keeton Strayhorn, who was running against Perry for governor. It was a chilly meeting.

On paper, those incidents look small, and they are. But now Romney and Perry find themselves in a high-noon situation, and there will be a showdown, most likely in the form of a debate. At the end of the primary season, only one will be standing tall.



I say that because there is not much chance that Michele Bachmann, currently running third in the polls, will gain enough traction to threaten the governors. The congresswoman is waging an energetic campaign, but big-money Republicans are looking for "gravitas" this time around, not ideology. Those running the GOP well understand that economics will decide the next presidential election.

Both Romney and Perry are well positioned in the economic arena. While governor of Massachusetts, a liberal bastion, state bonds received an upgrade by Standard and Poor's, the credit rating agency that just downgraded the USA.

Perry's economic story is solid, as well. Texas leads the league in job creation in the teeth of a stubborn recession, and tort reform has attracted major medical concerns and personnel to the state. So, on balance, both governors match up well against Obama in the area of economics.

Perry is counting on his conservative credibility to hold his poll lead over Romney, who is suspect in some rightwing precincts because of the Massachusetts health care law. You may remember that Obama gave Romney credit for passing the law, which, of course, was like putting a nail in the governor's shoe.

The Romney-Perry match-up should be interesting, especially if it gets vicious. Both men are capable of slinging some mud. And with the hair situations they both have, that could get messy.

RING OF DREAMS

Not every asshole is a celebrity. Some are simply drunks.....You know who you are. It seems everyone I run into these days is a hardcore alcoholic. It's seriously becoming exhausting. Sorry, just had to vent.

Okay, back to the column. You probably all know "Celebrity Rehab's" Kari Ann Peniche, the former beauty queen whose life spun out of control after she posed for Playboy several years back. A very public 3-way sex scandal with Rebecca Gayheart and her McSteamy husband, Eric Dane, plus an admitted drug and sex addiction all played a part in helping destroy this tabloid hottie's life. Speculation and endless rumors about Peniche's personal life slid into media madness.

Thus you can imagine my surprise when Kari Ann invited yours truly to fly to Portland, Oregon to spend this past weekend with her and her family.... Not to mention her 13 day old baby boy named Preston. The plan was two fold. One: Take exclusive images of Kari Ann and her new born. Two: Take the new reality star mommy out for a night on the town she wouldn't soon forget. MISSION ACCOMPLISHED!

Like most of you, it's hard not to formulate an opinion of a person based on what we watch on television or read in the magazines. But despite my anxiety I decided to actually book the flight and journey to the west coast and see for myself what was going on with this former Celeb Rehabber.

A great deal of Mojito consumption later I found myself rolling with Peniche to some of Portland's swankest watering holes. Each bar hop Kari secretly pulled out her seemingly limitless credit card and picked up the tab. How much does reality TV pay these people? But the night was just getting warmed up.

A few hours into our boozefest I found myself back at Portland's Benson hotel sucking down Dirty Martini's and (Think "The Hangover") ripping the swank hotel's smoke detector off the wall so our star could smoke until her little heart was content.

Here's where the story gets interesting:

After way too many cocktails, Kari Ann decided to share with me her current semi rocky marriage situation and how badly she wanted her $150,000 engagement ring off finger. In return I was promised 50,000 dollars worth of cash for achieving the impossible, getting that f—king ring off her finger. Apparently, Kari Ann's ring finger got a little pudgy since giving birth.

NOTE: For $50,000 grand I would have bitten off this former Beauty Queen's finger and licked her meaty knuckle bone clean! Luckily I didn't have to.

Desperately (And I mean "desperately") trying to pull the lotto winning ring off Kari Ann's finger with my foot pressed against her rib cage, I had a rare moment of clarity. Stop pulling and twist you fool! TWIST!

Despite her screams and pleading for me to stop, I slowly but steadily began to twirl the 10 kt. glittering rock until the ring of dreams along with chunks of skin and something I believe to be muscle tissue slide off her bloody digit.

To make a long story short the ring is no longer attached to Kari Ann's finger. So when do I get my money????

Stay tuned.

TIME TO GO UPTOWN

Review By Chantal Gabel

Just because you're downtown doesn't mean you can't enjoy the excitement and sophistication of UPtown life. The very chic, all new UPtown, located in downtown Morristown, is NJ's hottest indoor/outdoor venue with state-of-the-art technology and an attractive social crowd that can be the perfect place for a girls or guys night out, or the setting for your next private party.

Coining themselves as "North Jersey's first sophisticated sports lounge," don't let the swank atmosphere fool you; it's not just a weekend hotspot. Whether you're there to talk game stats, be single and mingle or just let loose with your friends, this is the place you can go to for any occasion. Co-owner Steven Skunakis says UPtown isn't "a bar, or restaurant, or even a sports lounge...it's a venue that's all of those things and more."

Have a beer or an exotic cocktail outside, or relax in the comfortable, panache lounge... order some appetizers while watching the game on any of their LCD TVs. With competitive drink, bottle, food, and sushi prices, everything from their fish tacos to their signature burgers, sandwiches, wings and "second to none" sushi will leave you satisfied, giving you a full NJ nightlife experience where eating good food and mingling is fostered. Diverting away from the same old fist pumpin music you hear everywhere, the music varies according to the culture of the crowd, attracting people from all walks of life. Football fans won't want to miss their football Sundays...diehard Fantasy Football fans themselves, Skunakis says they plan to take football "to the next level," to make fans apart of the NFL experience this year.

It's also UPtown's genuine service and attentive staff that separates them from the rest, with bartenders who are actually engaging, and service that is surprisingly fast for such a huge place. Skunakis says UPtown was "designed with an upscale, casual guest in mind...not stuffy, just enough swag to make you feel like you're in a spot that knows how to do it right, without making you feel like you have to put on a suit to watch the Yankees." Perhaps one of the best things about the place is there's something there for everyone; no matter how many times you go, you'll have a unique experience, without the ego of many NJ venues that practically push people out the door.

For more information, you can visit UPtown on their website at www.UPtownNJ.com, or check out their Facebook page at www.Facebook.com/UPtownFriendPage.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

BY TOM CLANCEY

NFL Kick-Off!

Sunday Funday is back! Fry up the wings and crack open the beers: For me, the best part of seeing summer slip away is welcoming football back into my life.

We'll start early this week, though, as the league kicks-off on Thursday night when the defending Super Bowl Champion Green Bay Packers will host the New Orleans Saints at 8:20 p.m. on NBC.

This year there will be a solemn element accompanying the start of the season as America and the NFL will mark the 10th Anniversary of the 9/11 Terrorist Attacks. This will be especially poignant right here in East Rutherford, N.J., at MetLife Stadium when the Jets will host the Dallas Cowboys on Sept. 11 at 8:20 p.m. on NBC; as well as in Washington, D.C., where the Giants will be to play the Washington Redskins at 4:15 p.m. on Fox. Patriotic ceremonies and respectful remembrances will be an important part of the games around the league and while we should be happy and celebrate the return of football, it's also important to remember to be reverent to our friends and neighbors who were personally affected by atrocious events that occurred 10 years ago.

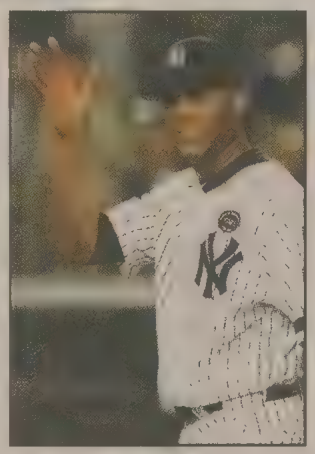
Giants' fans would love to see their team get off to a solid start against the inferior Red Skins after what seemed like a shaky offseason. With a solid system and coaching staff in place, Big Blue should be able to overcome some personnel changes and get off to a solid start against their bitter rivals.

The Jets' season opener is also rife with many on-the-field story lines as well. It's a personally important game for the Jets' outspoken Head Coach Rex Ryan, who will be facing his brother, Rob, who is Dallas' defensive coordinator. Their father, Buddy, the NFL legend who pioneered the 46-Bear Defense with the '85 Bears, will be attending to watch his sons in action just days before undergoing a surgery to remove a neck-cancer. Jets' fans are hoping to see a solid outing from third-year quarterback Mark Sanchez, who has a lot of talent surrounding him, but has yet to dominate in his young career.

The Great Rivera



Forever the consummate Yankee and a natural born winner, Mariano Rivera will have an opportunity in the coming week to record his 600th career save. And when he surpasses Trevor Hoffman's all-time best 601, Rivera will be officially assuming the title that we have unofficially given him for years: The greatest closer of all time.

Having another solid year in his 16th season, Rivera has thrown 54 innings so far, striking out 52 and allowing just 44 hits while boasting an ERA of 2.12. The 41 year old has also saved 38 games, advancing his career total to 597. In a year when Derek Jeter reached his 3,000th hit, it seems appropriate for Rivera to also reach his milestone.

The Yankees have been on a tear recently, winning five straight and carving out a 2.5 game lead over the Red Sox with only a few weeks left on the season. This week, they'll be traveling to Baltimore on Thursday for a 1 p.m. make-up game before going to Anaheim to face the LA Angels.

Send feedback on Twitter @TomClancey

The Bulls' Corner

The New York Red Bulls return home to Harrison, N.J., after two weeks off to play the Vancouver Whitecaps FC in what could be their biggest "must-win" match of the season.

For a club that teetered around the top of Major League Soccer's (MLS) Eastern Conference for the first half of the season, the Red Bulls have not recorded a win in their recent games and desperately need the three points that they would earn after falling to fifth place while just on the cusp of making the league's playoffs.

There is no better time for the Red Bulls to step up and win a game. After two weeks off, the Whitecaps are in town. Last place in the Western Conference, the Whitecaps hold an underwhelming record of four wins, 13 losses and nine draws for a total of just 21 points.

On the other side, the Red Bulls 32 points: The club's record is six wins, six losses and 14 draws (equal to one point per draw.) The Red Bulls, however, remain within striking distance of the first place Columbus Crew (40 points) with eight games remaining on the season.

It's time for the team to start getting some points; it's time for the team to step up and earn a much-needed win over Vancouver.

Party Like a Rawkstar

By Alexander A. Cardé

News about the most Rawkstar of bands, parties, and venues.

Are They Worth The See?

A few tips to find out if a band is worth seeing and a few tips for bands that are "doing it" wrong.

I was trying to find a band to shoot one day this week and in the process I came across a band I hadn't heard of. So I hit their website and the very first thing I see is "New Jersey's hottest cover band". Hmmm, apparently I'm doing something wrong because I've never heard of them and they are the hottest cover band in my own state.

Let's do a little more research... (Here comes a shameless plug.) I go to PartyLikeaRAWKstar.com and do a search. Zero results. 1. They're not on our calendar so they aren't working with Pass Productions (the be all/end all of e-mail lists for bands in the area), and I know they haven't asked us for Calender access. 2. None of our photogs have seen fit to cover them, nor have they hired any of us to shoot a show. Let's dig deeper. Their site wants me to check out their Facebook fan page. GOOD! If you don't have an FB fan page (not a profile page) then you are not doing all you can do to promote your band. BAD NEWS! They have less than 200 likes. Hard to believe the hottest NJ cover band has less than 200 followers.

Oh, wait... they have Twitter. Good. And they have their social marketing links prominently displayed on their website, very important. Bad, they are following 1 person. They're not following @stepoutmag, they're not following @plaRAWKstar, they're not following anyone in the industry at all. You don't get followers if you create an account and cross your fingers. Which brings me to my next point. The number of people following these guys is just too upsetting to publish, let's just say there are more people in the band than people following the band. Fine, you don't like Twitter, neither do I, but a lot of people do, so we must use it. Create a profile for yourself and follow your own band at the very least. And one last thing. If you only have one tweet and it isn't even about your next gig, you're doing it wrong. Tie your Facebook fan page into your Twitter account so that when you post on FB it automatically tweets for you.

If you're deciding whether to see a band check in Steppin Out or SO-mag.com, then go to plaRAWKstar.com and check out pictures from a show that we've covered. If we haven't covered them see if they have a fan base on Facebook and Twitter. You'll be able to tell if it's worth your time. That's not to say that a band is bad if they aren't on the Internet but who wants to risk their well earned night out on a maybe?

They may actually be "NJs hottest cover band" but no one will ever know with this level of promotion This is what fans, booking agents, and venues look for when they are doing research. Any successful band has this stuff locked down. If you don't know how to do this stuff then hire us or the myriad of other nightlife marketing people out there and take an ad in Steppin' Out to get people talking about you. It WILL increase your pay days.

If you have a band, venue, or party that you think is worth a write up shoot me an e-mail at Alexander@PartyLikeaRAWKstar.com.

September 11, 2001

It was a Tuesday... the day Steppin' Out goes to press.

Although it is impossible to capture the anguish, fear, anger and sadness of that day, I know we'd never forget what was happening just across the Hudson.

Below is a clipping from Steppin' Out, dated Wednesday, September 12, 2001. I think it captures the feelings we all shared.

Never Forget!

It's 3:30pm on Tuesday, September 11.

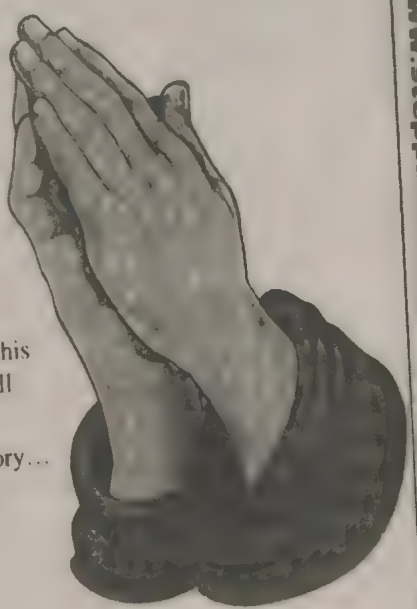
After spending half the day on the phone in an attempt to learn the condition of friends and family working in or near the World Trade Center, I've just made the decision to go ahead and publish this week's issue.

I am still trying to wrap my mind around an historic skyline, forever changed, two hundred million tons of rubble on the streets of lower Manhattan, countless people dead and injured within sight for most of us here in New Jersey/NY State; and I still don't know what to tell my kids who must be very confused if not terrified.

At this moment my heart aches for all of us that will be touched by this tragedy. For days to come, in ways we can't yet comprehend, we will learn the true weight of what has happened today.

I am numb and helpless, witness to the worst terrorist attack in history...

My thoughts and prayers (and those of the staff at Steppin' Out) are with all the victims and their families.



Larry Collins

Please feel free to send me tributes to your lost friends. I promise to publish any tribute made to anyone lost in this attack.

EXTREME MULTI-TALENTED TARYN MANNING

TALKS ABOUT HOLLYWOOD, MUSIC, HAGEN DAZ AND JIM CARREY

Interview by Chaunce Hayden

Actress/musician Taryn Manning has steadily created a screen presence that has rightfully turned her into one of Hollywood's most respected stars. Taryn's rise to fame began with her stunning critically acclaimed debut performance in the film "Crazy/Beautiful." The actress followed with powerful roles in "8 Mile", "Hustle and Flow", "Cold Mountain", "White Oleander", and the TV series "Sons of Anarchy" just to name a few.

Besides remarkable acting skills, this multi-talented dynamo is an electronic-pop recording artist, a fashion designer for her label Born Uniqorn, and an athlete who holds the Arizona State Championship title in karate.

Manning's latest role is as the road manager for a troubled glam rocker in "The Perfect Age of Rock 'n' Roll", which co-stars Kevin Zegers, Jason Ritter and Peter Fonda.

I recently had the opportunity to chat with Taryn Manning about her thoughts on Hollywood, music... and Jim Carrey?

Chaunce Hayden: Lets talk about "The Perfect Age of Rock n Roll".

Taryn Manning: I'm really happy that the film is finally going to come out!

I didn't want to bring it up, but since you did, why did it take two years to be released?

Just circumstances. It's not easy with independent films. I think there were some postproduction financial issues. But now it's coming out and it's being received really well.

But it has to be frustrating when so much times go by and you're excited about your work and it's sitting on a shelf somewhere.

To be honest, that has happened so much that I've become desensitized to it. I've also just learned to let go. I do the film, I love it, I feel good about it, but than I move on. That's what's so sad about being a director. The actors and the crew move on, but the director can't let go. It's his or her baby. So I always feel compassion for the director.

A rock film is so you. It's almost like you were made to do rock n' roll indie films.

I know. It is crazy. I keep getting asked, "When looking back at your history it seems you do a lot of films that have to do with music or musicians." It's not intentional. It's just something that has happened. It's just become a part of my life. It's what attracts me and it's what I attract. It's not like I just request music scripts from my agency.

The cast of "The Perfect Age of Rock n Roll" is pretty impressive. Jason Ritter, Lukas Haas, Peter Fonda, Lauren Holly, Kevin Zegers and a lot more.

Oh yeah! Isn't that crazy.

What's it like working with Peter Fonda?

He's such a great guy. He's really interesting to talk to. He was a lot of fun and really entertaining. He has so many stories about his past. He's got all kinds of kooky stories. He's kind of an eccentric, interesting guy. He's entertaining as heck.

So you picked his brain?

Yeah, I did a little bit. Everybody keeps asking me what we talked about. But it was so long ago, I can't remember specifics. I just remember the feeling he left me with and I really liked him.

Do you watch your own films? Do you obsess over them?

I don't obsess and something's I don't watch. If there's not a premier I sometimes don't get a chance to watch it. There's a lot of films I did I'd like to see but never had the chance to see. There's about six I haven't seen. One day I'll just have to spend a weekend checking out some of my work!

Is it weird watching yourself on a giant screen in a theatre?

Not anymore. Some roles where like that. I would think, "Oh gosh, here we go. That could have been better." But other roles I'm so proud of myself. It can go either way.

You don't seem to be the kind of actor who doesn't go for the money, but rather the quality of the work. Would that be fair to say? Much of what you do is edgy roles.

I've attempted to be in bigger studio films and I've done a handful of them. But I definitely gravitate towards quirkier, first time director type roles. Because in the indie world, it's like it's our film. Everyone has a piece of themselves in it. It's very collaborative. Whereas when you do a studio film there's a lot of studio people involved and you can just see them all stressing out. The artistry of it is taken away because they're such big budgets and everything is riding on it. It's hard to work under those conditions sometimes.

I'm happy for anyone who becomes successful. But what saddens me is that there's so much reality TV that it's cut down on the shows that actors can be on.

I read that your dream role would be a "Moulin Rouge" type of role where it's a big production musical and you're the star. True?

Oh yeah! Then I can really show people what I've trained to do for so long in one picture. I love musicals and I love dancing so much.

Speaking of music you just released a single called "Turn it up". I don't know if most people know that you can sing your ass off. Is it difficult to balance a music and acting career?

I'm able to balance both, but right now I'm really passionate about music. It all goes hand in hand for me. There's time for both. But right now I'm really into my music.

You had success with your group Boomkat. Does the group still record?

We actually have a whole record we're ready to finish recording. We just have to get into the studio and lay down the vocals and it's done. It's really awesome!

You were supposed to do one episode of the critically acclaimed series, "Sons of Anarchy." But they liked your work so much you became a semi regular. Is there talk of your returning again this season?

Until your character dies and the show is still going there's always the opportunity to do more. I can't say for sure. I can tell you I'm not in this season at all, because the creators already told me. But there's room for my character to be back.

So you aren't a film snob. You can do television as well.

Not at all. I also have a little part on "Hawaii Five-O". I totally enjoy it. I enjoy working and good writing. I also love to travel. That's part of why I've done so much in my life. Music takes me all over the world. I've gotten to also make movies in places like Africa and Romania and Uruguay. It's just been really fun.

You have a history of being in the Top 100 sexy list of Men's magazines. Do you care about those titles?

I don't care about that at all. That's all flattering, but that's not anything I care about. If anything I'm trying to move away from that kind of Men's magazine. I just feel I'm a little beyond that. I would rather do really quality features in smaller magazines.

How do you feel about reality TV and the over night stars it spawns?

I'm happy for them. I'm happy for anyone who becomes successful. But what saddens me is that there's so much reality TV that it's cut down on the shows that actors can be on. Also, when a reality star gets a big film it's a little frustrating because are they really trained actors? I mean there are so many people who want it so bad and are so passionate about the craft of acting. But then you have these people who become an over night sensation. It's like I said, I'm happy for them. It's obviously in their stars to become known. But it's definitely frustrating because it's taking away a lot of opportunities for us

What was your reaction when you heard that Amy Winehouse passed away?

The fact that she was 27 has been the topic of conversation for me and all my friends because "The Perfect Age of Rock N Roll" is all about that. It's devastating. I hate when we lose something. It's like when we lost Brittany Murphy. She was one of my good friends. That just devastated me. It's sad when someone dies before their time and they're so talented and come from such a loving family. There's so much life ahead of them. I've been a little low since Amy died in general. I'm affected by it to be honest.

Is music therapy for you?

Yeah, it really is. When Aaliyah died when I was really young I wrote a song about her. What's crazy about it is that it can happen to you. Life is so super fragile. I guess it's a reminder to enjoy it as much as we can.

Is it true you were a state champion in Karate?

Yep!

Can you still kick ass?

(Laughs) Not so much anymore. I could when I was a preteen. But I still know the scales and my disciplines. I'm just not up to speed. However, I know my kicks and my punches.

Any guilty pleasures?

Ummm. Hagen Daz coffee ice cream. Is that a good one? I love it!

Finally, if there was one person you could star opposite in a film do you have a name for me?

There's one person I've always wanted to work with and that's Jim Carrey. I want to do some comedy and be around that level of comedian. He's such a riot. He puts me in a good mood when I'm down. I'll just pop in one of his films and I feel great. He's such a fool but in the best way. Just thinking about his faces makes me laugh.

I think it's weird when he gets all serious.

That's like Ben Stiller in "Permanent Midnight" when he started to get all serious. I agree it throws you off. I'm like Jim, no comeback! But he's the best. I'm also a Sean Penn fan for years.

He's too serious for me.

Yeah, but I feel like I could hold my own.

MARTINI MORON

Sometimes I just can't understand why snooty people even bother coming into my bar. From the start, one can tell that it's not upscale... not even close. It's an all-around good time, no doubt about it, but it's the type of place that doesn't need to be dressed up in fancy cocktails and prices in order to accomplish that.

On a busy Friday, it takes all my energy not to roll my eyes at someone who decides to order martinis. It. just baffles me when people even try to drink these in my bar because one little shove and all that vodka is on the floor. Those tapered glasses are not meant to brave the storm that is unruly college kids. Go to a nice steak dinner and order a cocktail if you want to unwind and enjoy one. That's all I'm saying.

Still, I oblige and make this broad a Grey Goose martini, up, with four olives, as per her request. Lifting the glass, I watch her make the ugliest face as she takes a sip. I already know she's going to make a scene so I lean over and ask her what the problem is. "The olives are too overpowering. Maybe you should remake it with only two this time. All I taste are olives." Well, see, this is exactly why I say that people need to realize where they are before they start ordering and being obnoxious. She specifically told me four olives, so that's what I did. I could understand if I made it wrong or threw in too many, but I didn't. That's what you ask for, and that's what you get. I don't have time for you to taste-test a handful of martinis until you find one that you like. Typically, martini drinkers know what they are looking for and have their drink down to a science. This girl obviously heard someone order this drink in a movie and thought she'd try her luck with it tonight. I can't be bothered by this, whatever the reason may be.

My tickets are piling up in the corner and people are shouting at me in every direction. But I can't even look away and cater to another person until this bitch is satisfied. Even my boss shoots me a WTF-type glance and can see what a pain in the ass she's being. I remake the drink and she tells me it's fine and she'll deal with it. Whatever. Just get out of my face, little girl. She cashes out and scoops all the money off the bar without a tip. I could have guessed that was going to happen, which irritates me because I did exactly what she wanted. Not my problem that you have no clue what you want and think it's OK to jerk me around and waste my time. I should be charging her extra for all the money she made me lose out on dealing with her bullsh*t.

Jose Mangin

BY DAN LORENZO

Jose Mangin is a busy man. How busy? He's the man for all things heavy at Sirius/XM, he's hosting Headbangers Ball (new episode every Thursday at www.MTV2.com) and … well check out his job description below. You can hang out with Jose every Thursday night at 9pm for Hard Attack Thursdayz at Dingbatz in Clifton NJ. While Jose was recently in an airport he answered the following questions:

Describe your day job.

Well …I'm in charge of two of Sirius/XM's biggest rock channels "Octane" and "Liquid Metal". I program all the music, I write all the copy for the production, I manage the staff of DJs, I'm in charge of promotions, I interview bands and then, doing my own show on channel 40 6-10pm Eastern time. I go to work every day with a big smile on my face.

What should we expect if we show up Thursday nights at Dingbatz exactly?

A metal throw down. I want to make it a community metal retreat. I bring a bunch of CDs and autographed posters to hand out. It's good to be part of the scene. I love Dingbatz. It's the coolest metal bar West of the Hudson-I'm a big fan of Duff's out there in Brooklyn, but as far as NJ, Dingbatz is the number one place. I'll be talking on the mic before songs. I want to get bands involved where people can come and bang their head every Thursday. Bands can bring their demo's out and if it sounds cool I'll play it on my show the next day.

You've interviewed countless bands-what memory stands out the most??

Wow … that's a good one … my most memorable interview? Cheech and Chong-that was one of my favorite interviews ever. Jamming 'Mouth For War' with me on my acoustic guitar and Vinnie Paul (Pantera) on bongos, … singing "War Ensemble" with Rob Flynn from Machine Head playing guitar. That was cool. One of my funniest, and one of my most popular, was one of my many interviews with Ozzy Osbourne. I got the chance to play guitar for him. It's on YouTube as "Ozzy gets serenaded by Jose"- it's pretty cool.

It's the year 2021. Where will we find you?

A-2021? Damn? I don't know. I would love … that makes me 44. I'll probably still be in Jersey. I would love to go to San Diego. I love Jersey, I love New York, and I know this is for Steppin' Out, and Jersey pride and all, but I love NJ. I don't care if we have to pay the highest state taxes in the country-I still love NJ, but San Diego would be pretty cool because I hate shoveling snow!

Jets? Giants? Who is your team?

Here's a "3-fer" … I have a good friend who plays for the Giants, Aaron Ross #31, my wife and I went to his wedding in Austin … I like the Jets too. I'm taking Joey Belladonna to the Jets/Cowboys game on 9/11 on Sunday night football, a few days before the new Anthrax CD comes out. But really my NFL football team, and I love football, it's my favorite, is the Arizona Cardinals because I have to represent my home state. I'm a Cardinal's fan. I'm going to go with the Cardinals.

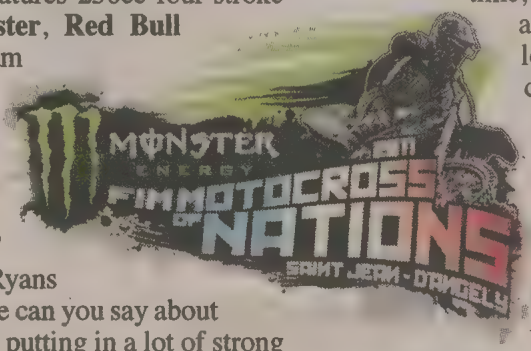
The United States is gearing up for a full-blown assault on the 2011 FIM Motocross of Nations, Sept. 17-18, at Saint D'Angely, France, with the American Motorcyclist Association (AMA) finalizing the team structure and partners coming on board to support a first-class world championship effort. Our country's team includes Rockstar Makita Suzuki's Ryan Dungey, Monster Energy Kawasaki's Ryan Villopoto and Monster Energy Pro Circuit Kawasaki's Blake Baggett. Dungey will race the MX1 class, which features 450cc four-stroke machinery. Villopoto will race the open class. Baggett will compete in the MX2 class, which features 250cc four-stroke motorcycles. Roger DeCoster, Red Bull KTM Factory Racing team manager and Motorcycle Hall of Famer, will manage the team in its hunt for a record 22nd Motocross of Nations Championship. "This is an awesome team," DeCoster said. "The two Ryans are quite dominant. What else can you say about them? "As for Baggett, he is putting in a lot of strong rides in the 250cc class, and he's getting stronger as the season comes to an end," said DeCoster. "What's really important is that he is a guy who can come from behind. It's tough to get a good start in the Motocross of Nations on a 250cc bike, because they race on the track with the 450cc bikes, and you have to be able to come through the pack a lot. We need a rider who can do that, and Blake can."



AMA Director of Supercross and AMA Pro Racing Relations Kevin Crowther said that it's nice to return to the Motocross of Nations with another superb team. "We couldn't be happier with the U.S. national team this year," Crowther said. "Villopoto is leading an extremely tight 450cc points race in the Lucas Oil AMA Pro Motocross Championship. Dungey is the returning overall champion from the 2010 Motocross of Nations, where he led the U.S. National team to its record 21st victory. And Baggett is lighting up the 250cc outdoors class, where he is the top-ranked U.S. rider. We are bringing a lot of talent to France this September, and not just on the track, but off it as well." Dungey has competed most recently at the Motocross of Nations, racing for the winning U.S. team in Italy in 2009 and Lakewood, Colo., in 2010. He said that teamwork will be key to success in France. "This is a really good team with Ryan Villopoto and Blake Baggett," Dungey said. "To go with that, we have a great group of people behind us. We all know how to work together, and we're building a great partnership -- that's what it takes to do well at this event. "It's not about winning individual honor here," he added. "It's about winning as a team, and we're all going to help each other out, whether it's advice we can give or whatever. One man can't win it. All three of us have to do our job. With this being Blake's first time, if I can help him in any way, I will, and I know Villopoto will as well." Villopoto, who last competed on the U.S. team in 2008 when he won with James Stewart and Tim Ferry, said that he's thrilled to be back and part of a particularly talented U.S. national team. Villopoto also was a member of the 2006 and 2007 winning teams. "I'm really happy to be back on the team after being injured the past two years," Villopoto said. "It was hard to watch and not be able to have the chance to race the event. As long as we all go out there and ride how we've been riding this season, I think we have a great shot at winning." As for the track, which also hosted the Motocross of Nations in 2000 when the United States won with Ricky Carmichael, Ryan Hughes and Travis Pastrana, DeCoster described it as a "typical" Grand Prix track. "There are some elevation changes," he said. "It's pretty wide. It's a bit on the side of a hill. The club there does a good job. It's a well-organized track." The Motocross of Nations is one of the most high-profile motorsport events in the world. It features national teams competing for a combined score to determine the overall championship-winning country. The event emerged in post-war Europe in 1947 and has run uninterrupted since that time. The United States is the all-time leader in Motocross of Nations overall victories with 21. Let's hope we keep that ball rolling this year! Go Team USA!!!

I will end off this week with another quote from "Sit Down, Shut Up, Hang On!" This one reads "If you really want to know what's going on, watch what's happening at least five cars ahead." So true...

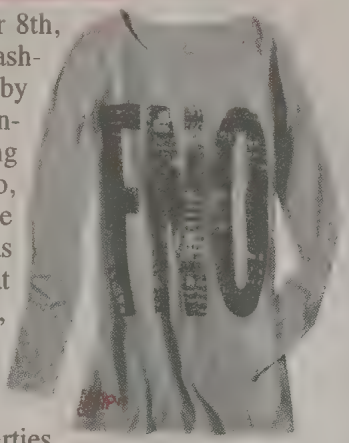
TERRIFIC TWEEDS

Autumn is my favorite sartorial season, and one of the reasons why is the rich, heavy fabrics that the cooler weather allows us to wear. Tweed for example; who doesn't love this thick, luxurious style, that brings to mind college campuses and Ivy League leanings? J. Crew understands this love, but also knows how to make tweed cool. Check out these subtly sexy tweed shorts that hit mid-thigh, to be worn with thick tights. I love the leather-trimmed slash pockets and belt loops, and the casually chic self-tie belt. They sell for only $118. If you like your tweed a tad more traditional, you can't go wrong with the Houndstooth Moore blazer. With it's feminine fit and long, lean silhouette, this is one layer that will always look appropriate for work or school. It sells for $395. Perhaps you like tweed, but not enough to make it your statement piece; well, J. Crew has got you covered there as well. I love the Perry peep toe booties ($275) which are fashionably frisky with their two-tone tweed pattern and sexy heel. Perfect with straight skirts or flared bottom slacks. If you like your tweed with a rock and roll edge, you need this fun fedora. It takes a traditionally masculine look and gives it a femme twist, making it perfect for dudettes with attitude, for a reasonable $58. You can buy all these tweed styles at www.jcrew.com.

FASHION'S NIGHT OUT THIS THURSDAY



This Thursday, September 8th, marks the third annual Fashion Night Out. Created by NYC editors and designers to boost the sagging economy three years ago, this night is now a chance for all tri-state fashionistas to toast the creativity that comprises all that is FNO, and makes The Big Apple the most fashionable city on the planet. If you want to find out where all the parties and events are, surf to www.fashionsnightout.com... this site even tells you how to download an app that tells you exactly what you need to know. If you can't make it to the festivities firsthand, at least purchase one of the iconic FNO tees, such as the long-sleeved grey version shown here, sold on the site (and at select stores) for $30. This year's collection has expanded to include totes as well, and 40% of the proceeds benefit The New York City AIDS Fund. Fashionable and charitable are two characteristics that go hand in hand.

DOE-EYED BEAUTY

If you are out and about on FNO and want to photographed by the media (as I have been), you need to stand out. One way to do so is with these amazing false eyelashes by Paperself, which resemble intricate origami for the eyes. If you look closely, you can see deers and butterflies... super cool. They sell for $19 at www.sephora.com.

ALICE COOPER COLLABORATES WITH KE$HA

Alice Cooper is set to release 'Welcome 2 My Nightmare', the sequel to his 1975 album 'Welcome To My Nightmare' on October 17. Produced by Bob Ezrin, the album features a guest appearance from Ke$ha – on 'What Baby Wants' - as well as original Alice Cooper bandmembers Denis Dunaway, Michael Bruce and Neal Smith, who are reunited for three album tracks. The album release will be preceded by the single 'I'll Bite Your Face Off', which is released digitally on August 22 and on limited edition 7" picture vinyl on September 12. About his new album, the frontman says: This is Alice's nightmare 35 years later. Bob and I created this character and we know how to write for him. I play the part but we're not writing for me, we're writing for Alice. We kept the first Nightmare album very personal to us, on this one we found more humour and we were more open. On his collaboration with Ke$ha he added: I think a lot of my audience is going to go KE$HA!?, but she probably wrote the most disgusting lyrics in the song – we had to rein her in. I like people to know that just because artists are put in a pigeon hole, that doesn't mean that's what they are. Give people a little room.

GREEN DAY'S BILLIE JOE ARMSTRONG THROWN OFF AIRPLANE FOR SAGGY TROUSERS

Green Day frontman Billie Joe Armstrong was left fuming after he was kicked off a plane on Thursday for wearing his trousers too low. The rocker was onboard a Southwest Airlines jet when a flight attendant asked him to hike up his trousers before take-off, prompting him to ask if there were "better things to do than worry about that?," according to an ABC7 report. He was then booted off for failing to comply, and took to his Twitter.com page to vent his frustration, writing, "Just got kicked off a Southwest flight because my pants sagged too low! What the fk? No joke!" An airline representative then tweeted, "Very sorry for your experience tonight, someone from our Customer Relations Team will reach out to you to get more details." A spokesperson for Southwest insists Armstrong was allowed on the next flight.

SEVEN DAYS IN UTOPIA

Directed by Matthew Dean Russell. The story of Luke Chisolm (Lucas Black), a talented young golfer set on making the pro tour. When his first big shot turns out to be a very public disaster, Luke escapes the pressures of the game and finds himself unexpectedly stranded in Utopia, Texas, home to eccentric rancher Johnny Crawford (Robert Duvall). But Johnny's more than meets the eye, and his profound ways of looking at life force Luke to question not only his past choices, but his direction for the future.

SHARK NIGHT 3D

A sexy sumer weekend turns into a blood-soaked nightmare for a group of college students trapped on an island surrounded by voracious underwater predators. Arriving by boat at her family's Louisiana lake island cabin, Sara (Sara Paxton) and her friends quickly strip down to their swimsuits for a weekend of fun in the sun. But when star football player Malik (Sinqua Walls) stumbles from the salt-water lake with his arm torn off, the party mood quickly evaporates. Assuming the injury was caused by a freak wake-boarding accident, the group realizes they have to get Malik to a hospital on the other side of the lake, and fast. But as they set out in a tiny speedboat, the college friends discover the lake has been stocked with hundreds of massive, Flesh-eating sharks! As they face one grisly death after another, Sara and the others struggle desperately to fend off the sharks, get help and stay alive long enough to reach the safty of dry land.

Run Time: 91min. Rated: PG-13 ★★★★

Steppin' Out Under the Stars

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) You're now dealing with a situation that deserves a long, rewarding future. Don't allow a small, ultimately trivial matter to consume precious energy. Just aim for slow, steady progress.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20) Stop looking back. Try not to look forward. Don't even look at what superficially appears to be happening right now, either! Look inside, instead. Look, listen & be guided by the deepest part of your heart.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20) You can create trouble, if you wish. Or you can allow someone else to create it by joining in with their drama. But with a little trust and self-restraint, you'll find easier options.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22) The only kind of happiness that could withstand the pressure you now face is a genuine one. And if that's not what you're feeling? It's what you will feel soon.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) You're now rapidly reaching a realisation that will improve your emotional life in every way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) All will continue in much the same unsatisfactory way unless, you take charge of your own destiny. That is what you are now, bravely, beginning to do. Keep on.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22) The changes starting to take place are surprising, but they all have potential to touch your heart and improve your prospects.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21) You must take care not to attribute blame to the wrong person. This is a red-hot time. Bask in that heat, don't fry in it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21) You are not as far down the wrong road as you fear. Here comes a reassuring revelation and a real release from anxiety.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) You're going to be making magnificent progress as you direct all your energy and effort into a decision that's long overdue.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) You now have to find some real answers. It will take some doing - but you will do it.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20) Intelligence must be accurate information. You have all that now and more. Use it well and you may yet find anything IS possible!

WHERE ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN!

By ANGELA POMPELLI-BUTLER

Hi Angela,

My husband and I have sex a few times a week, which I think is just fine, but he says we don't have sex nearly enough.

How often should we be having sex?

I am going to have to agree with your hubby and suggest that "sex at least once a day helps keep the doctor away"! Although I think a few times a week definitely a base for a healthy sex life, there is no such thing as too much sex! The average couple has sex three times a week, which is right about where you are now, but many couples have a different idea of how frequently you should be having sex. There have even been studies indicating that married couples with a healthy sex life live longer than their bachelor friends, which could be due to the strong mutual support that marriage brings or the frequency of sex. A healthy sex life can improve self-esteem, create a closer emotional attachment and release endorphins, which naturally decreases the amount of stress, pain or anxiety that a human being feels. So, considering all of the benefits of frequent sex in marriage, couples must make an effort to maintain a healthy and wholesome attitude towards sex. If you feel that sex can come monotonous, try experimenting with new positions, read some how-to books for making sex more exciting and always try to be more spontaneous. As an added bonus, sex is great exercise and can burn up to 500 calories an hour and depending on how good you are, you could burn more calories in an hour than doing a grueling workout video! So that's something to think about. Replace the normal exercise regimen with some hot and steamy sex, it is still a workout! Here is my final thought...I do think frequent sex is important to any marriage, but I also believe you should always want to make each other happy and if that's what you set out to do every time you engage in sex, than I don't think it matters how often you have sex as long as it is always good. I say quality over quantity on this one.

Truly yours,
Angela
